There is really nothing much to do as far as marketing is concerned. If you followed my recommendations, you should be in great shape. My recommendations this year have come out among the top of all advisory services. I look forward to a great next year. Prices will be higher in Corn and Soybeans than we have had this year. Challenges will be great. Volatility will be extreme. You will need a sound marketing plan and stick religiously to it. I will help you put that together during the winter, when we learn more about the puzzle pieces.

Remember to keep control of as much Cash Corn as possible this Fall. Basis will improve after harvest and Cash prices will rise.

If the acres are switched from Soybeans to Wheat and Corn like they should be, supplies will be trimmed and prices will rise.

If we raise decent crops next year, gross income should be high.

Energy prices are coming down, so buy hand to mouth for your energy supplies this Fall.

On the second page, I have added the current futures prices versus our sales levels. That should give you a snapshot comparison.

Let me know how your yields are as soon as you do any harvesting.

CURRENT CROP 2006 WHEAT: We have sold 90%. No additional recommendations. Sell 10% at $4.31 versus December. That's 41 cents away.

NEW CROP 2006 SOYBEANS: We have sold 40%. No additional recommendations.

NEW CROP 2006 CORN: We have sold 50%. No additional recommendations.

NEW CROP 2007 WHEAT: We have sold 30%. No additional recommendations.

RED CROP 2007 SOYBEANS: No additional recommendations.

RED CROP 2007 CORN: We have sold 10%. No additional recommendations.
